

The Institute of Clinical Research Launches New Company Membership Scheme to Support Clinical Research Professionals

October 9, 2025, London, England — The Institute of Clinical Research (The ICR) is delighted to announce the launch of its Company Membership Scheme, an initiative designed to strengthen professional development and collaboration across the clinical research sector by increasing access to the clinical research community to a wider membership.

Several organisations have already joined as Company Members, demonstrating strong interest in the scheme and its benefits for both organisations and individual members.

What is Company Membership?

The Company Membership Scheme offers organisations a more efficient, cost effective and inclusive opportunity to provide ICR membership to their employees—in the UK, Europe, or globally. It also allows employers to show their support of the Clinical Research industry and to shape the direction of The ICR. Membership fees are tiered based on the number of individuals enrolled.

What Our Members Are Saying

“Joining as a Company Member has given our staff access to high-quality training and a professional network that supports their growth.” — Ewan Campbell, CEO, Acceler8 Clinical Research

“We see this as a strategic investment in our people. The webinars and expert access have already sparked new ideas and collaborations within our teams.” — Graham Wylie, Chairman, The MRN

“The ICR’s flexible approach to global membership means we can support our teams across Europe and beyond. It’s a great way to unify our professional development efforts.” — Graham Belgrave, Managing Director, Advanced Clinical

“We’re thrilled to see companies embracing this opportunity to invest in their teams and the wider community,” said Karen Roy, Co-Chair, The ICR. “This scheme is a powerful way to support career growth, foster collaboration, and elevate standards across the industry.”

Key Benefits of Company Membership

For Companies:

- Enhance employee development and engagement
- Showcase commitment to clinical research excellence
- Opportunity to be part of the voice of Clinical Operations through The ICR
- Free ‘Hot Topic’ webinars for members and opportunity to present

- Discounted training, forums, events and tailored sessions
- A free 2-hour online event, chosen from a selection of topics, for ICR members registered within the company
- Efficient, cost effective and inclusive management of membership costs

For Members:

- Join a global community of clinical researchers
- Use of MICR letters (Professional Members of The ICR)
- Free “Hot Topic” webinars and expert access
- Receive the quarterly e-newsletter ‘CRfocus’
- Reduced rates for training, forums, events
- Opportunities for mentoring, leadership, and consultation input

For more information, please visit <https://icr-global.org/company-membership/> or contact Karen Roy on karen@icr-global.com

Here is the link to the Business Wire press release: <http://bit.ly/47Nvgdw>